Capt. G.R. Gopinath's Air Deccan to fly again

Mysuru, Sept.4 (NNN) - Captain G.R. Gopinath last evening announced that he would be starting flights from Chennai to Mysuru shortly as his private charter firm Deccan Charter along with Air Odisha had won a huge contract across India to fly to small towns and later big cities under Prime Minister Narendra Modi's ambitious regional connectivity scheme, UDAN.

He disclosed this news after his new book "You Cannot Miss This Flight - Essays on Emerging India," was launched by renowned Kannada novelist Dr. S. L. Bhyrappa at a fully-packed hall in Wind Chimes, Nazarbad, in the presence of K.B. Ganapathy, Editor-in-Chief, Star of Mysore and Krishna Prasad, former Editor-in-Chief of Outlook.

The launch was followed by a conversation between the author Capt. Gopinath and Krishna Prasad. He was replying to a question from Prasad on when or if ever he was going to relaunch his Air Deccan and said that he could not start the airline earlier than he wanted to as there was a six-year non-compete clause with Vijay Mallya's Kingfisher airlines.

"I am in the fortunate and fortuitous circumstances now to start the airline after Prime Minister Narendra Modi launched the new scheme UDAN to link 500 airports in small towns and in small airfields and later more metros with bigger aircraft. Deccan has won a contract, which was the original Air Deccan plan. Out of the 126 routes, we have won 84 routes (75 per cent of the routes). Now we will be flying from Delhi to Shimla, Mysuru to Chennai and other routes like Dr. Bhyrappa suggested — Mysuru to Mangaluru, Mysuru to Hubballi, Mysuru to Hampi," he revealed. Mysuru is still the cultural, emotional and heritage capital of Karnataka and the nostalgia for the city is there among many people in the country. Even flights from Ahmedabad to Mysuru will do well as there are lot of Marwaris who want to fly, besides honeymoon couples, as the city has so much to offer. Mysuru-Varnasi and Delhi are the other routes that will be definitely viable, said Capt. Gopinath.

CAVA 'Headless' since a Month

- Students resort to indefinite strike by boycotting classes
- Annual 'Dasara CAVA Mela' doubtful

Mysuru, Sept. 4 (RKB)- Even as the city is gearing up for Nada Habba Dasara festival scheduled to be held from Sept. 21 to 30, about 200 students of Chamarajendra Academy of Visual Arts (CAVA) resorted to an indefinite strike in front of the Institute on Bannur Road in Siddarthanagar here this morning demanding immediate appointment of Dean to CAVA.

The students are a worried lot as they will miss the much-awaited 'Dasara CAVA Mela' which they propose to hold on Sept.24 and 25. The Mela, organised annually, seems unlikely this year, as there is no Head for the Institute after the previous Dean, Basavaraj S. Musavalagi, retired from service on July 31.

"It is not possible to organise the Mela without the Dean, as he holds the power to manage the funds. As per norms, only the Dean can get funds sanctioned for the Mela and other activities," said the students who are staging the protest under the banner of CAVA Students Union 'Kuncha Kavya Samskruthika Samithi (KKSS).'

They alleged that though they had written to Kannada and Culture Minister Umashree and Principal Secretary of the Department, to appoint the Dean soon no action had been taken.

The protestors, led by Students Union Secretary Anjan Aditya and Joint Secretary K. A. Deekshith, said "We need at least a month's time to prepare for the Mela which includes an art expo, cultural events, painting and drawing competitions," and rued that now they hardly have 20 days to prepare for the annual event.

Fuming farmers, urging urbanites

Every government makes it a point to inform the country's masses that it has done this-done that to make their life comfortable and even better than the government managed by a different party when it got its perch at the top. The incumbent government at the Centre is taking its turn, in the august company of the four-plus-year-at-the-helm Karnataka government in the saddle to din into everybody's ears that most of the pre-poll promises, if not all them, have been kept, giving no room to the beneficiaries to cry hoarse. The game of promising El Dorado (place for fabulous opportunities) during the regular and periodic electioneering by both established politicos and the budding flock under major as well as sundry party banners, regionally and nationally, but leaving the masses to their fate, has been going on with you-know-who-is-the winner.

So far may be so good for the land and its diaspora in many respects, specially the fact of democracy being still intact, unlike in some regions across the world, but signs are emerging that the nation's political stability is entering the region of doubt and economic prosperity heading for a slow down, although these portends are not in the class of writing on the wall as it were.

The honchos occupying the seats of power and authority as elected representatives of people, although not garnering more than one-third of votes polled, barring exceptions, are unfazed by the ever rising high-decibel road shows all over the land expressing total disenchantment in the matter of fulfilling the expectations of the people at large. The farming fraternity and the urban residents, in ratio of 60:40 in the country's total population are in different leagues while reckoning with their plight as well as their style of wrestling with the government of the day. If the rustics toiling in the fields to raise food and other crops shall be at peace if their a) loans are waived, b) rewarding price is assured for their produce and c) timely and adequate water is provided for agriculture, the urbanities are chasing their needs of daily life alongside luxuries of the affluent sections in a long and growing list, power, potholes and pay are only examples of their pet demands.

How are the two sections (rustics and urbanites) pursuing their causes makes two interesting cases. In short, the farmers are fuming (by staging road-rage) and the urbanites are urging (by writing in Reader's columns of dailies, a pastime that is familiar to Mysureans). The governments response: We go on and on!

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

BRIDE AND GST PREJUDICE: Minister of State for Finance Arjun Ram Meghwal, it appears, is privy to the problems a married woman faces in her new household. A new bride, according to Meghwal, is given a set of orders on the very first day after her wedding. So she has to wake up at 7 am and make tea for her father-in-law after he returns from his morning walk. And if guests come unannounced she isn't supposed to fret but welcome them with a smile. He was merely comparing the new Goods and Services Tax (GST) regime — you guessed it — to a bride who too faces "compliance" issues. "Now, if the bride can't get up at 7 due to a backache she should seek her mother-in-law's permission to sleep till 9," Meghwal added, hinting that both the government and the real estate industry had to compromise to ease into GST. — In Business Standard.

Orange peels brought forest back

San José: In 1997, Daniel Janzen and Winnie Hallwachs, a husband and wife team of ecologists working with the Área de Conservation Guanacaste national park, in Costa Rica, came up with a plan to save a piece of unspoiled, completely forested land from a big fruit juice company, by offering something very attractive in return. If the company, Del Oro, agreed to donate part of its forested land to the Área de Conservation Guanacaste, they would be allowed to deposit massive amounts of waste in the form of orange peels on a 3-hectare piece of degraded land within the national park, at no cost.

For the next 15 years, no one really monitored that 3-hectare piece of land that had been virtually covered with fruit waste was completely overgrown with trees and vines. Treuer and his team spent months picking up samples, analysing and comparing them. The area fertilised by orange waste had richer soil, more tree biomass, greater tree-species richness and greater forest canopy closure."

Unbeatable Queen of hot chilli eaters

London: Every year, the Clifton Chili Eating Club holds a popular eating contests that go with several rounds of eating increasingly hotter peppers. It's a grueling competition, but one that a middle-aged woman by the name of Sid Barber has been dominating since 2014, earning herself the nickname "Unbeatable Sid."

A serious chilli contest, that you've probably never seen how these event go down. They start off easy, with reasonably hot peppers but the challenge gets tougher with every round, and before you know it, you find yourself eating Ghost Chillies and Naga Vipers, flaming hot chillies with Scoville ratings averaging over 1 million unit. Some people can't fight their gag reflex and end up throwing up, or until it gets that they reach for their glass of milk, which equals a forfeit.That painful final round at the Clifton Chilli Eating Contest usually features just two of the original participants, Sid Barber has been one of the last two people standing. Not only that, but she ended up winning the contest three straight times, which makes her a living legend among spicy food enthusiasts.

Is there a natural way to help prevent Alzheimer's disease?

Vitamin B12 (cobalamin) is an effective way to lower the risk of developing Alzheimer's disease. As we age, the frontal lobe of the brain begins to shrink, leading to cognitive decline and possibly dementia. A recent study revealed that cobalamin drastically slows down brain shrinkage and cognitive decline.

Help our crying dustbins !

Sir,

I am a resident of Shakthinagar, 7th A Cross, 4th Main. Here, the small little tempo which is supposed to collect our home waste is highly irregular and untimely! Sometimes, it doesn't come even for one week and if it comes, it is already overloaded and waste keeps dropping all the way it goes.

Sometimes it comes at 8 am, sometimes at 10 am and at times at 11 am thus affecting working people like us because we can't keep the waste outside for long, thanks to dog menace.

The day the tempo comes, we have to clean the front yard of our houses compulsorily as the tempo carries little waste and spills lots of waste in front of our houses!

Is there no schedule for the pourakarmikas or are we unaware of it? Will the MCC authorities concerned please take appropriate action to give us a permanent solution to this problem?

There is no public dustbin anywhere nearby for us to dispose the waste and as responsible citizens, we are not supposed to dispose the waste anywhere else. What to do with the waste, it starts stinking inside the house! Why this apathy in our heritage city?

Gangothri Layout: Worst maintained Roads

Sir,

It is four years since the Roads and Cross Roads in Gangothri Layout were dug for laying deep sewerage pipes and till today we have been living with those bumpy pothole roads.

Disgustingly they were filling the potholes with mud. The Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) and the area Corporator are answerable to the tax-payers for their apathy and indifference.

Will the MCC Commissioner personally take this issue to order for the asphalting of the roads immediately?

'Keep vigil over kids playing Blue Whale'

Maneka Gandhi tells Schools

New Delhi, Sept. 4- Union Minister for Women and Child Development Maneka Gandhi has written to the Heads of Schools in the country, advising them to keep a watch on students indulging in the online game 'Blue Whale Challenge.'

Maneka Gandhi, who writes a weekly column Pet Talk in Star of Mysore on Wednesdays, has said that the game has proved to be inimical to children's interest, leading to suicides in many cases. "It is our responsibility to look into such tendencies," she said in a letter sent to the schools.

The Minister's letter, dated Aug. 31, said she has appealed to the Information Technology Department to make available all tools needed to block the game online. The letter also asked the schools to create awareness among teachers and students on the ill-effects the game can have on young minds.

Stating that schools must keep a constant vigil on children showing abnormal behaviour, the letter also advised to take the services of '1098' Helpline.

When SOM contacted the DDPI Office and some schools in Mysuru, the authorities said that they had not received any communication in this regard.

PM Modi has neglected Karnataka

in recent Cabinet rejig: MP Dhruvanarayan

Modi

Mysuru, Sept. 4 (RKB&VNS)- Prime Minister Narendra Modi has neglected Karnataka during the Cabinet reshuffle held yesterday at New Delhi, said Chamarajanagar MP R. Dhruvanarayan.

Addressing press persons at Jaladarshini Guest House here yesterday, Dhruvanarayan said that the expectation of people of Karanataka getting more representation in the Union Cabinet has gone wrong despite BJP having 16 out of 28 MLAs from the State and added that none of the MLAs from the State have been given good portfolio.

Stating that the former PM Manmohan Singh had given good representation to Karnataka, the Chamarajanagar MP said that the BJP MPs were not even in a position to question their leader for neglecting the State.

R. Dhruvanarayan

Modi's aim not fulfilled

The demonetisation of currency notes had halted the circulation of currency worth Rs. 15,45,000 crore. The claim of the same amount having been returned to Government has turned false with 0.17 percent of the currency not being returned.

The RBI has spent Rs. 3,421 crore during 2015-16 and Rs. 7,965 crore during 2016-17 for printing of new currency notes, it has suffered a loss of Rs. 4,544 crore, he said and added that the demonetisation had affected the Small Scale Industry and many people had lost their jobs. He also criticised the Central Govt. for slow downfall of GDP growth to a 5.7 percent from 7.2 percent.

The Congress party has visited individual houses to highlight the failures of current Government at the Centre and also about that increase in terror attacks ever since Modi Government had come to power, he said and added that PM Modi's Government had failed to deliver good governance as it was concentrating towards the corporate sector.

All communities represented in State Cabinet

The Congress Government in the State has made sure to give representation to all communities in the Cabinet with 6 members from Veerashaiva community, five Vokkaliga members, Backward Communities, SC/ST, Minorities and others being sworn-in as Ministers.

MyLac Chairman H.A. Venkatesh, Zilla Panchayat Member Nandini Chandrashekar and others were present.

LOOKING BACK . . .

On Books and Babies

By D. Lalitha Rao

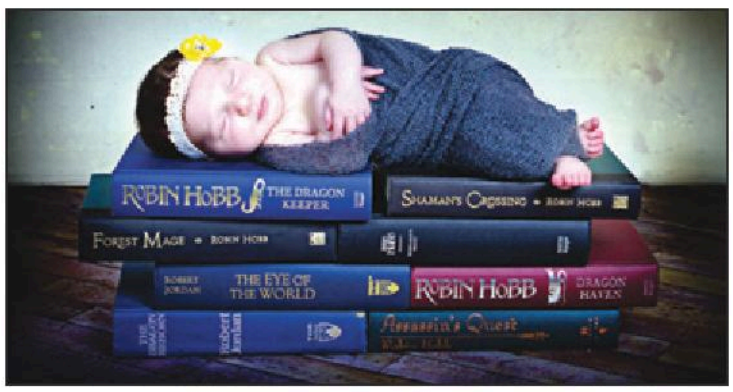
Writing after many weeks is always a difficult task. The hand is rusty, the thoughts are musty and the sense of continuity has vanished over the horizon. Still, it is the job of a writer to write, create, produce and publish. I thought I would start with a paragraph or two about what's been happening in my world.

Mysuru has slowly but steadily woken up to the literary world and embraces it with joy. Two Lit Fests were held back to back in June, both resounding successes. They drew large audiences and the cream of Indian literary luminaries like Girish Karnad and Ramachandra Guha spoke to enthralled listeners. This sleepy little town of ours is capable of rising to great heights; even budding authors are encouraged to produce more works.

I am reminded of a story that the famous Canadian author Margaret Atwood had to tell about the launch of her first book The Edible Woman. The book signing had been arranged at a department store down town and for reasons best known to the publisher, she was put with copies of her book in the basement where the men's boxer shorts and socks were sold. Came lunchtime and men began to wander in to do their shopping; as soon as they saw the lady with the pile of books with the funny title, they took one look and retreated hastily or just fled. The poor author ended up signing two copies of her book. Of course, she went on to achieve literary fame, winning the Booker Prize for The Blind Assassin and writing a number of wonderful novels, but that first experience stayed with her. A lot of us ambitious authors have been through this experience where nobody seems to be interested in what you have to say and the world is a loveless friendless place! But we cannot give up hope or the act of writing because it defines us as people, gives substance to our personalities.

I was at a Meet-the-Author session some years ago in Chennai, the author being the legendary Wilbur Smith. He was lively and amusing despite his age, and kept us enthralled with his anecdotes about the literary world. One of the stories he told us was about the time he was at a signing event of his first book at the famous bookstore Doubleday in New York. He was put in a room along with another author who he noticed was signing books in a great hurry, even though there were no customers waiting in line. Looking up he noticed Wilbur Smith regarding him with wastonishment and no doubt feeling that an explanation was due, said sheepishly, that by signing the copies he was making sure the publisher did not take them back! The author turned out to be none other than Frederick Forsyth the best-selling English writer of spy and adventure thrillers.

Although I have not yet produced a novel, I hope to someday soon. My secret dream is to be one of those authors that live in relative obscurity, but are so beloved by their readers that a new book by them is snapped up and sold out as soon as it is published. I wait for my favourite authors to bring out new offerings and promptly order a copy for myself. Many of them are old and slow to come out with new works but it is worth the waiting. John Le Carre the English master of spy thrillers is out with a book in September which I eagerly await, and he is in his eighties!



Although I have not yet produced a novel, I hope to someday soon. My secret dream is to be one of those authors that live in relative obscurity, but are so beloved by their readers that a new book by them is snapped up and sold out as soon as it is published. I wait for my favourite authors to bring out new offerings and promptly order a copy for myself. Many of them are old and slow to come out with new works but it is worth the waiting.

So much for the world of creativity and literary delights. Now for some natural phenomena. Life always renews itself and the promise of new things keeps one going from day to day.

As I look out of my window at the gardens below, I see that the African Tulip tree is already in flower. Beautiful red blossoms are bursting into flame and soon the whole tree will be filled with scarlet flowers that brighten up the dull skies. Nature sticks to her schedule no matter what and the passing of seasons is to be noted with a sense of satisfaction and rightness.

Then, we are shortly to become grandparents. My daughter-in-law in faraway San Francisco is in the last term of her pregnancy and junior as we currently call him, is kicking away vigorously at his mummy's tummy. I am delighted and wait in eager anticipation for the happy event to take place. I guess all grand-parents reading this would immediately understand how we feel, the sense of something wonderful about to happen, the knitting of baby sweaters and bootees, the whole glorious new life about to unfold. It's too early to think in terms of what will he become or do, but I know what I have to do to make this house child safe, so that he can crawl around and explore to his heart's content without hurting himself. I must put away all fragile and breakable ornaments, all sharp and poky objects, and leave only toys at his eye and hand level. I have to fix a gate at the entrance to our open kitchen. I have to prepare to be a granny with all the fun and little of the responsibility that parents have. Does that sound selfish?

I think I can justify myself by pointing out that when I was at the parenting stage there was nothing I did not do to ensure that my boys grew up to be fine citizens. They have made us more than proud. Now it's time for us to sit back and enjoy the joys of childhood once again. One of the things I definitely want to do is write story books for my grandchild. Books that his parents or we grandparents will read out to him.

In our time the guide to parenting and baby care was by Dr. Benjamin Spock the famous Paediatrician. I don't know what baby books the young parents-to- be refer to these days but I'm sure that all advice centres on plenty of tender loving care. Here's to all babies !

VTU revises rules for revaluation

Bengaluru, Sept.4- Good news for students studying under Choice Based Credit System (CBCS) in colleges affiliated to Visvesvaraya Technological University (VTU).

The VTU has decided to revise the revaluation rules and this will be applicable to both undergraduate and post-graduate courses. This will be effective for June-July 2017 examinations.

As per the revised rules, if a candidate fails or gets less marks after revaluation, the University will consider the highest marks between the two — first evaluation and revaluation. According to VTU authorities, the rules were revised after they found out that the students lost more marks or failed after revaluation.

VTU Registrar (Evaluation) Prof. Satish Annigeri said, "The decision was taken during the Board of Studies meeting held a month ago. The new rules will be applicable even for the exams held in June-July 2017, for which the revaluation applications will be invited from Sept. 7." Earlier, VTU used to consider only revaluation result.

The changes: If marks after revaluation is lesser than the marks awarded during first evaluation, the original marks will be retained. If a student gets more than 15 marks during revaluation, then the paper will be evaluated by a third evaluator. After this, the final marks will be awarded considering the average of the nearest two highest marks.

It may be recalled, VTU Students' Struggle Committee and All India Democratic Students' Organisation had staged a protest on Sept.1 urging the VTU authorities to conduct supplementary exams for CBCS students and re-introduction of carry-over system.

Capt. Gopinath's Air Deccan to fly again

Asked whether he regretted selling his Air Deccan to Vijay Mallya or would it have been better if he had sold it to Mukesh Ambani, his reply was very revealing.

"I should not have sold it all. I capitulated. In retrospect, if I had not sold it, I would be successfully running it," he said.

He definitely did not want to sell to Ambani. Mallya at least believed in what he wanted to do though he was over ambitious and foolishly believed that his model would succeed. "Though I tried to convince him that there is no scope for growth at the top as there were only 2 to 3 per cent, whereas the remaining 97 per cent wanted to travel in an aircraft, he refused to buy the argument. He told me, Air Deccan is not sexy, not glamorous, it has no stock value and Kingfisher was a better brand. He bought off the board," said Capt. Gopinath.

Krishna Prasad began his conversation asking Capt. Gopinath what his hope for the country was after three years of Modi Government. Capt. Gopinath said that he was an eternal optimist. "Many nations are not poor because of lack of resources, they are poor because of poor policy," he said.

According to Capt. Gopinath, Modi is a visionary who has no real corruption charges against him, but there has to be other changes. You need to create institutions both at the Centre and State level where there is complete autonomy. For instance, an Attorney General takes instructions from the State, which should not be the case. All institutions have to be independent of government.

He categorically stated that regarding 'Demonitisation,' Reserve Bank of India should have stood up to it and if it had done it, then there would not be so much of economic suffering.

Talking about corruption, he said that we definitely need to weed out black money from the system. But, for that to happen everyone from a judge to a lawyer to a journalist to a lecturer should stop being corrupt.

To another question on the GDP growth which has slid to 5.7 per cent and "how you want India to catch the flight?" his reply was, "Is the ease of doing business happening on the ground? Everyone has started believing in all kinds of catchy slogans. There is no power in most of the villages in the country. I know because I am also a farmer. The biggest mistake that everyone is doing is, mistaking the slogan and hype for reality."

Unless far reaching reforms are not affected there is no scope for improvement. "Modi is not realising that his sloganeering will not carry the day. He is falling short," he said.

Asked on reforms and whether reforms in aviation has helped the country, he said that there was crony capitalism at work because of which Jet Airways founder was given special consideration. "He did a good job. The Jet Airways founder was just a travel agent. He came up the hard way. But after growing he opposes competition," he said.

Hence there are two kinds of cronyism — one is Crony Socialism and the other is Crony Capitalism. In the first kind there is a politician—bureaucratic nexus as pointed out by Dr. Bhyrappa. Taking the example of Indian Railways, he said that it was crony socialism at its best and as long as this continues, it will continue to suffer losses and accidents will keep happening. "Large number of employees in the Railways have been given protection. Modi has to revamp and restructure the Railways," he said.

Dwelling on the ills of privatisation, he gave the example of GMR which runs a few airports in the country and said how they were suffering huge losses as they have borrowed heavily and now finding it difficult to repay.

On the Infosys imbroglio, he said that everyone at the top should learn to let go.

On the question of what are the three things for success that the many in the audience who were young need to understand and learn, Capt. Gopinath said, I am really superstitious. The first is they must dream big but it should be combined with venture. The second is, like Goethe said, "Dare to dream, but begin it." As entrepreneurs if they just dream and do not begin, it is of no use. It is not correct to go to the Gurus to find out whether what they are doing is correct. If there is a problem then they have to sort it out. In Kannada there is a proverb 'Angai ina hunnige kannadi beke.' Everyone must have to look inward to find answers.

The third is, there is no short cut to success even for a genius. They have to labour hard and persevere and not give up. It must be combined with optimism and enthusiasm," were the three mantras for success, he advocated.

He also talked about his flirtation with politics and his disillusionment with BJP and how he had contested as an independent. "I am an agnostic and I abhorred the BJP because of RSS. But when I decided to contest the election, there was no 'nationalism,' those days. I had met Vajpayee who came across as a very liberal and practised a broad kind of philosophy for India. Hence, Modi should not only reign in Islamist jihadis but also Hindu zealots," he said.

On his take on how he could write on a range of topics in his book, he said that he was not a creative writer like Bhyrappa. "I have one per cent of writing ability because of the genes of Gorur Ramaswamy Iyengar," he said.

Recalling his childhood in the village and how systems were in place, he said, "If a cow was stolen everyone knew where it would be found. But mostly it was the old and infirm cows that were slaughtered by the beef eating Adi-Karnataka people in the villages. My father always used to say that God always compensated, when he saw how the poorest of the poor found food." And added, "Nobody went up in arms and beat up the Harijans for eating beef."

A brief question and answer session followed and on the question of Mysuru airport, Capt. Gopinath said that it has to be modified and unless Boeing aircraft cannot land then flights to Delhi, Mumbai cannot take off. All that is needed is another100 acres to increase the runway length and if the government wills, it can be done.

Earlier, Shubha Urs of Mysuru Literary Forum Charitable Trust and founder Book Clubs-2015 welcomed. The news letter 'Book Leaf,' was also released on the occasion. Saras Subramaniam introduced Capt. Gopinath, Vasanth Kumari introduced Dr. S.L. Bhyrappa and Sasikala Ramanathan proposed a vote of thanks.

Stray dogs maul scooterist at KC Layout

Mysuru, Sept. 4 (VNS) - In a ghastly incident, a scooterist suffered injuries after being mauled by a pack of 6-8 stray dogs at around 11.30 pm at K.C. Layout in city, yesterday.

The injured has been identified as Nazir Ahmed. Nazir, who was returning home from work, was attacked by the dogs resulting in him falling off his scooter and sustaining injuries on his legs and shoulders. Hearing his cries, students from nearby hostel rushed to his rescue and chased away the dogs. Later, Nazir was shifted to a nearby hospital.

With tourists increasing to Chamundi Hill, there is also an increase in dog menace in K.C. Layout located at the foot of hill with visitors dumping the leftover food on the footpaths. Despite several complaints, none of the officials concerned from Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) have taken action to stop the dog menace. The residents have also complained that the MCC has not been collecting garbage regularly.

It may be recalled that Nazir was attacked by the stray dogs at the same time when he was returning from work last year also. When Star of Mysore, spoke to local Corporator Vanitha Prasanna, she said that the matter would be brought to the notice of officials and assured action.

Bhyrappa urges air connectivity between Mysuru-Mangaluru

Saraswati Samman awardee Dr. S.L. Bhyrappa is seen addressing the gathering at a book launch in city yesterday.

Mysuru, Sept. 4- Sarsawati Samman awardee and renowned Kannada novelist Dr. S.L. Bhyrappa regretted that air connectivity from Mysuru was still not taking off. What was important was air connectivity between Mysuru and Mangaluru and Mysuru and Hubballi.

He was speaking after he launched the book, "You Cannot Miss This Flight," a collection of Essays on Emerging India by Captain G.R. Gopinath, who pioneered the low-cost air travel in India, yesterday at the Wind Chimes in Nazarbad here and said: "I have travelled in Gopinath's Air Deccan. I feel very sad it stopped flying. For people like us it was so important to have a low cost airline."

Coming down heavily on the State Government for locating the Kempegowda International Airport in Devanahalli and Mysore Airport near Nanjangud, he said, "It is sheer idiocy of the Government to locate these two airports so far."

Coming down heavily on the bureaucracy, he said, "Though Modi had original ideas, it was they who were putting all the hurdles, which he understood better after reading Capt. Gopinath's earlier book 'Simply Fly' and how they were trying to finish off the Deccan airline."

Sharing his own example of the bureaucracy, Dr. Bhyrappa said that when one of his friends, a KAS Officer (who was in the Education Department) was promoted to IAS cadre, he was posted to Bhadravathi. He asked him how he could handle such a post without any experience and the Officer's reply was, "As an IAS Officer I know everything."

Another incident of how the bureaucrats worked was when he was in NCERT Delhi from 1978 to 1981. There was textbook printing training programme, which the Germans had offered the NCERT to train. An officer from nowhere got himself posted, went to Germany along with his family for six months, returned and got himself transferred to his parent Department immediately.

Lauding Capt. Gopinath for his efforts in writing the book, he said that only people like him were capable of writing such books with their rich experience, which, he as a novelist did not have. He asked everyone to buy the book and read.

Earlier, K.B. Ganapathy, Editor-in-Chief, Star of Mysore, said, "For the first time, Capt. Gopinath was pioneering helicopter service in a country which was economically emerging. Earlier, only a few industrialists used it. Naturally, his next step was the airline, which was once a rich man's transport. He thought of an average Indian as the country is teeming with poor people who entertained the desire of flying. He made it a reality through his low cost airline."

Talking about Capt. Gopinath's earlier book 'Simply Fly,' he said that it was an unputdownable book with perfect choice of words. "When I read it for the first time, I did a lot of cheating. But I read it again and saw his rags to riches story, the rural and urban Indian," he said and added, "It should be introduced in the graduate classes just like Jawaharlal Nehru's 'The Discovery of India' which was edited and introduced in classes when I was a student."

He gave the example of the mythical Homa bird, which is always in firmament and never reaches the earth. When it lays the egg to propagate its species, from the sky, before it touches the earth, the egg breaks open, the young one flies and goes back. "Gopinath's airlines should, like-wise, be always in the sky to serve the people at low-cost, said Ganapathy.

Vaastu-Feng Shui & Bio-energetics

By S.B.S.Surendran
Accredited Master Feng Shui Consultant

Active work space

The basis of Feng Shui is to ensure you are surrounded with things which not only inspire and motivate you but generate a positive vibe and harmony. Be it a home or work environment, creating the right feel, and in synchronicity with the nature's forces is of great importance.

Aligning the interiors and the furnishing alone ensures excellent Feng Shui when tuned with the compass directions and one can achieve a lot through these methods and proper alignments.

When we adapt the oriental science for designing new homes or a office, the primary concern is to get the space to be in tune with the occupants. In a office set up, it does get tricky as it has to keep in mind many different individuals to be working from there. The location of the office is not normally something over which we have control but its internal layout can make a great difference to the way people feel and behave.

Changes as simple as re-aligning the furniture, painting or moving in healthy plants are at times more than enough. Negativity breeds Negativity so forward planning and planning work programmes holistically, rather than a day-to-day basis will reduce stress.

One of the most important areas of the home or office is the entrance and the main door as this is the place where most energy enters and we tend to churn the energy by walking in and out through these doors — be it home or office.

Improving work relationships is one of the most sought after need of the time. As we all know how the boss rules our worklife and job promotions, using simple Feng Shui tips you can improve relationships with your bosses and colleagues.

Business premises are active, busy sites and the energies to be encouraged are very Yang. Any empty spaces within the building or immediately around it, like empty offices, warehouses and derelict ruins would have to be considered as 'pools of decay' and protected against.

To ensure that we move ahead in all our pursuits with confidence and strength, we primarily need a sense of support and connection with the building and more specifically the room in which we spend more time.

Adapting few of the following methods could help in creating a harmonious and prosper work space.

• Place a lucky bamboo plant on your table on the left hand side of the work desk.

• Place Feng Shui coins tied in red ribbons inside your drawer or personal locker for improving money luck.

• For a healthy relationship with the boss, hang a picture in a nice photo frame where all are happy and smiling be it from a party or any happy occasion.

• Display awards or positive objects which exhibit your strength and success in the workplace.

• Create your own "mountain of gold" by gathering small pebbles painted gold and putting them as a heap on a earthen or crystal bowl. This will give opportunities and support from benefactors. Place your mini mountain in the northwest corner of your office.

Make 'Mangaluru Chalo' bike rally a success: MP

Mysuru, Sept.4 (SP&DM)- With the State BJP gearing up to organise 'Mangaluru Chalo' bike rally from Sept. 5 to 7, to condemn the killings of RSS workers and Hindu workers in coastal region and to press for imposing a ban on organisations such as PFI, KFD and SDPI, the KR Yuva Morcha hosted a preparatory meeting at Sri Rama Mandira near Ballal Circle in Krishnamurthypuram here yesterday.

Pratap Simha

Addressing the meeting, MP Pratap Simha, who is also the State BJP Yuva Morcha President, alleged that the State Government was patronising anti-national organisations such as PFI, KFD and SDPI which were allegedly involved in the killing of Hindu outfits members.

Accusing the Congress Government of utter failure in the maintenance of Law and order in the State, Simha said the 'Mangaluru Chalo' bike rally will be taken out from Mysuru, Bengaluru, Hubballi, Shivamogga and Chikkamagalur.

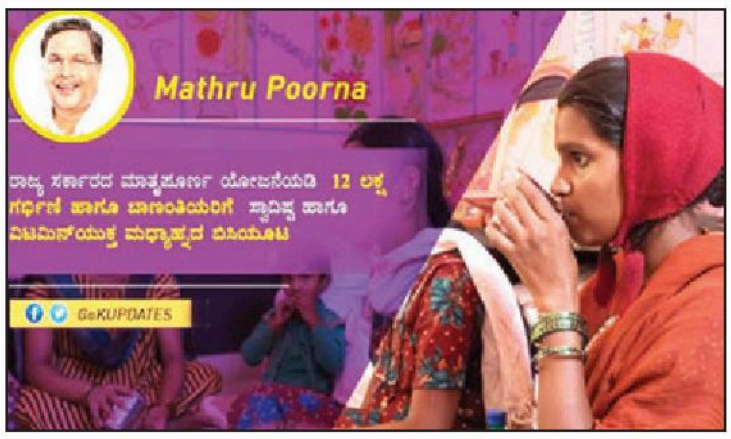
The bike rallies will converge at Mangaluru on Sept.7, where a massive public rally will take place in the afternoon.

The party workers from Mysuru district are asked to gather at Kote Anjaneyaswamy Temple at the North Gate of the Palace at 10.30 am on Sept.6. The bike rally will pass through Hunsur, Periyapatna, Kushalnagar, Madikeri, Sullia, Puttur and B.C. Road to reach Mangaluru, he said. Pointing out that he himself will be leading the rally, Pratap Simha denounced the State Government's plans to thwart the rally's entry to Mangaluru.

Exhorting the party workers not to get disheartened by such State Government's plans, the MP said that the rallyists will stay in the houses of party workers if they are prevented from occupying the already booked choultries and halls.

'Mathru Poorna' scheme to be implemented in district

Mysuru, Sept.4 (SP)- The State Government's ambitious 'Mathru Poorna' scheme, aimed at providing nutritious food to pregnant women and post-natal mothers will soon be implemented across the district.



Women and Child Welfare Department Deputy Director K. Radha, speaking to SOM, said that it was found that Rice, Wheat, Sugar and Jaggery being distributed to pregnant women and post-natal mothers, was shared among all family members of the beneficiary. As such, many pregnant women became deprived of nutritious food, resulting in the birth of abnormal children.

The Chief Minister upon coming to know of this scenario came up with 'Mathru Poorna' scheme, which aims to provide nutritious food at all Angananwadi centres on the lines of mid-day meal scheme for children, she said.

Stating that the scheme has already been implemented on an experimental basis in H.D. Kote Anganawadi Centres, Radha said that the scheme will be introduced at all taluk headquarters of the district from Oct. 2.

The implementation of the scheme that aims at providing vitaminous foods to pregnant women and post-natal mothers, will largely help in the birth of healthy children, she said and added that all measures will be taken to ensure the success of the scheme in the district.

Meanwhile, the Anganwadi workers have expressed reservations over the implementation of the scheme through Anganawadi centres.

Claiming that the pilot project introduced in H.D. Kote taluk has been a failure, the Anganawadi workers wondered whether conservative communities would send pregnant women and post-natal mothers to anganawadi centres. They also said that the previous system should be allowed to continue.

'Women are more supportive of BSP'

Mysuru, Sept. 4 (SP&DM)- Claiming that women are more supportive of Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP), State BSP President N. Mahesh said that the party needs to have women's wing at every level.

He was speaking after inaugurating a seminar titled 'Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's contribution for the liberation of women,' organised by the BSP district unit to mark the inauguration of its women wing at Hotel Govardhan on Sri Harsha Road in city recently.

Regretting that even though a large chunk of women folk supported the BSP, the party lacked in grooming women leadership, Mahesh said however, the party was always in the forefront in addressing Dalit and women issues.

Referring to the ongoing spat between Congress and BJP leaders over marrying Dalit girls, the BSP leader said both the parties were indulging in cheap publicity in order to garner Dalit votes.

Alleging that the Congress and BJP were pursuing anti-Dalit and anti-women policies, he said that women should teach a fitting lesson to both the national parties in the next Assembly polls.

Earlier, floral tributes were offered to the portrait of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar. BSP office-bearers Lakshmi Gopinath, Bheemanahalli Somesh, Shivamahadevu, Prabhuswamy, Nagaraju Nadanahalli, Pratap, Chikkamahadevu, Suresh, Siddaraju and others were present.

WORD OF THE DAY

Swahdee ZAHNG

Pronunciation: swah-dee-ZAHNG

Meaning: self-proclaimed, so-called
Origin: Soi-disant, which in French means literally "saying oneself," is one of hundreds of French terms that entered English in the 18th century, during the period known as the Enlightenment. Even as political antipathies between France and England were being played out on battlefields in Europe and America, English speakers were peppering their speech and writing with French. Soi-disant first began appearing in English texts in the mid-18th century as a disparaging term for someone who styles or fancies himself or herself in some role.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

If the shoe fits, wear it

Meaning: If a description applies to you, then accept it.

This expression is often used when something derogatory is said about a person who then complains to a third party. The third party, if they agree with the original negative comment, might suggest "If the shoe fits, then wear it."
Example: Jack: Just because I've missed two or three sessions, my fitness trainer says I lack motivation. Jill: Well, if the shoe fits, wear it.
Origin: 'If the shoe fits, wear it' is often shortened to 'If the shoe fits...', leaving the listener to fill in the blank. The expression is the American version of the earlier British phrase 'If the cap fits, wear it', which is also still in general use. Daniel Defoe used the earlier phrase in the satirical poem The Dyet of Poland. Defoe had the work printed in London in 1705 but, as it was a rather vehement critique of the English parliament, Defoe used the flimsy pretence that it had been printed in Dantzig and was the work of 'Angliopoloski of Lithuania'. Defoe's point in the poem was that readers are responsible for their own opinions; he (or rather Angliopoloski) may have written the poem but that any conclusions drawn from it were owned by the reader, not him: Gentlemen, and if the Cap fits any Body let 'em wear it. 'If the cap fits' is itself a version of a yet earlier phrase 'if the cloak sitteth fit', that is, 'if the cloak fits well'. This expression dates from the 16th century and was used in print by Richard Hooker in Of the Lawes ofEcclesiasticallPolitie, 1593: Which cloakesitteth no lesse fit on the backe of their cause, then of the Anabaptists. The 'cloak' version of the phrase does suggest that the later 'cap' was a variant of 'cape'. As to 'if the shoe fits', that began being used in the late 18th century.
